Nature of exhibit

I invite everyone to embrace freedom as they view my art. I hope to display some of the infinite variety with which the natural world has been created. Everything is unique – each mountain, each flower, each person. My watercolor series features the beauty of flowers and peaceful retreats. My acrylics show vibrant colors and across different snapshots of the natural world. My pastels and drawings feature inviting landscapes and scenes as well as closeups of plants, animals, and people.

My artistic philosophy

I want my artwork to inspire others to care for animals and even all of the natural world. I invest my emotions and energy fully in my artwork. I want to be genuine and transparent. I strive to paint realistic pictures that show life.

I have lived at the University City for almost four years with my husband Bill and our playful yellow labrador Shadow. Visiting the Saint Louis Zoo and other parts of Forest Park are among my favorite sources of inspiration and retreats for relaxation. I have traveled and enjoyed the scenic beauty of many US states – Arizona desserts, Maine coastline, Oregon waterfalls, Colorado Rockies, Kansas farms, and many others. I teach art to school-age children in the Saint Louis area I am currently finishing an art school program that focuses on a traditional curriculum.
